

My Summer has been Quarantined

Elian Tolentino

Some times, life is incredible
But at times, life is inevitable
Now I envy the life of a marine As I cant see the sea because of quarantine
Cause inside I don't want to be Instead, I want to be free!
Cause this is the time I realize
How much I miss the wave's rise
Cause one day the sun will shine
And freedom once again will be mine
Running down the shore
Going along the sea line
Singing this melody, as if everything were fine
Summer is finally here
And it's for me
Yet I can't see it because of quarantine
Cause I have that fear
A fear that coming out would risk my life
So now I must stay inside
As the ocean waves pass beside But one thing that will relive my bummer
Would one, only one, glimpse of summer
